NJ21SW0021	Lurg Mheadhonach	A drove road is shown on the 1st edition OS map of 1846, but is labelled as an 'Old drover's Road' by the 2nd edition map of 1888. A track is depicted on the current edition map following the route of the road.	345582	847624	Low	Low	None - avoidance not possible due to location and nature of asset.	No further recording proposed: Asset is already recorded within HER. Minimal further information would be retrieved with further study.	Low	Minor to Negligible
NJ44NE0002	Mains of Auchoynanie	House; 3-storey building with two turrets falling into ruin; a windowhead presently lying on ground bears the date 1698 with the arms of the Gordon and Burnett families. Site of earlier manor.	345477	849534	Low	High	Avoidance of area through detailed design where practicable.	Recording in advance if construction work is required at this location. NJ44NE0038	Birken Burn	A building, with an enclosure to its north, is depicted as disused on the OS map of 1846. The enclosure is depicted on the later 1888 edition but not the building, the area of which now lies within woodland. It is unknown if anything survives.	345448	848075	Low	High	Avoidance through detailed design where practicable.	Survey in advance of works at this location, with recording/watching brief if required during construction.	Low	Minor to Negligible
NJ44NE0048	Greenwood	This drainage system is shown on the 1901 edition of the OS map. Its purpose is not immediately clear and remains an interesting question.	345389	847130	Low	Moderate	Avoidance through detailed design where practicable.	Watching brief/recording if construction work is required at this location.	Low	Minor to Negligible
NJ44NW0005	North Whiteley	Possible cairn. A hollowed mound surviving as a grassy rim, 2m wide; probably a cairn although its position on a slope is not particularly good.	343208	847033	Low	High	Avoidance through detailed design where practicable. 		map of 1847 as having two long ranges roughly E/W orientated. There is a single building at the western side of the north one, possibly a mill, and an L-shaped building to the SE of the southern one. There is also another possible building to the west. A lade leads to the mill from a pond in the west. By 1888 the farmstead has become U-shaped with an open court to the east. The configuration is now similar but the court has been built over and there is another building to the northwest. The mill pond is no longer depicted.					design where practicable.
